Port and Nata Special

Francesinha (meaning (little) Frenchie in Portuguese) is a Portuguese sandwich originally from Porto, made with bread, wet-cured ham, linguica, steak or roast meat, and covered with melted cheese with a hot and thick spiced tomato and beer sauce. It is typically served with french fries.

History of ## FRANCESINHA

Daniel da Silva, a returned emigrant from France and Belgium, tried to adapt the croque-monsieur to the Portuguese taste when he moved to Porto. He first made the sandwich with local meats and his special sauce in 1953 at 'A Regaleira', a restaurant in Rua do Bonjardim, Porto; the francesinha quickly became a very popular dish and deeply associated with the city, although it can sometimes be found elsewhere in Portugal.

Inspired by

The famous, 'Cervejaria Portuguesa Restaurant' was born on the 10th of June (Portugal Day) in 1925, on the corner of the Brewery with the same name, in Almirante Reis Avenue, Lisbon. Its opening made the headlines and the influx of customers exceeded all expectations. The beer, considered the best in Portugal, was the main reason, but in time it brought with it the seafood and the famous steaks that quickly became the houses' ex-libris. In the following decades, 'Cervejaria Portuguesa' became one of the main meeting points with a relaxed and bohemian atmosphere.
